Representation votes

6(1) Subject to subsections (1.1) and (2), in determining what trade union, if any, represents a majority of employees in an appropriate unit of employees, in addition to the exercise of any powers conferred upon it by section 18, the board must direct a vote to be taken by secret ballot of all employees eligible to vote to determine the question.

(1.1) No vote shall be directed pursuant to subsection (1) unless the board is satisfied, on the basis of the evidence submitted in support of the application and the board's investigation in respect of that evidence, that at the time of the application at least 45% of the employees in the appropriate unit support the application.

the board shall, subject to clause 5(k), direct a vote to be taken by secret ballot of all employees eligible to vote, but the board may, in its discretion, refuse to direct the vote where the board:

10 Where an application is made to the board for an order under clause 5(a) or (b), the board may, in its absolute discretion, reject any evidence or information tendered or submitted to it concerning any fact, event, matter or thing transpiring, or occurring after the date on which such application is filed with the board in accordance with the regulations of the board.

Certification after unfair labour practice

10.1 On an application pursuant to clause 5(a), (b) or (c), the board shall make an order directing a vote to be taken by secret ballot of all employees eligible to vote, and may make an order pursuant to clause 5(g), where:

(a) the board finds that the employer or the employer's agent has committed an unfair labour practice or has otherwise violated this Act;

(b) there is insufficient evidence before the board that shows that 45% or more of the employees in the appropriate unit support the application; and

(c) the board finds that sufficient evidence of support mentioned in clause (b) would have been obtained but for the unfair labour practice or violation of this Act.

1994, c.47, s.7; 2008, c.26, s.4.

Decertification after unfair labour practice

10.2 On an application pursuant to clause 5(k) for an order rescinding an order made pursuant to clause 5(a), (b) or (c), the board shall make an order directing a vote to be taken by secret ballot of all employees eligible to vote, and may make an order pursuant to clause 5(g), where:

(a) the board finds that the trade union or an employee has committed an unfair labour practice or has otherwise violated this Act;

(b) there is insufficient evidence before the board that shows that 45% or more of the employees in the appropriate unit support the application; and

(c) the board finds that sufficient evidence of support mentioned in clause (b) would have been obtained but for the unfair labour practice or violation of this Act.

1994, c.47, s.7; 2008, c.26, s.5.

Unfair labour practices

11(1) It shall be an unfair labour practice for an employer, employer's agent or any other person acting on behalf of the employer:

(a) to interfere with, restrain, intimidate, threaten, or coerce an employee in the exercise of any right conferred by this Act, but nothing in this Act precludes an employer from communicating facts and its opinions to its employees;

(b) to discriminate or interfere with the formation or administration of any labour organizaton or contribute financial or other support to it; but an employer shall not be prohibited from permitting the bargaining committee or officers of a trade union representing his employees in any unit to confer with him for the purpose of bargaining collectively or attending to the business of a trade union without deductions from wages or loss of time so occupied or from agreeing with any trade union for the use of notice boards and of the employer's premises for the purposes of such trade union;

(c) to fail or refuse to bargain collectively with representatives elected or appointed, not necessarily being the employees of the employer, by a trade union representing the majority of the employees in an appropriate unit;

(d) to refuse to permit a duly authorized representative of a trade union with which he has entered into a collective bargaining agreement or that represents the majority of employees in an appropriate unit of employees of the employer to negotiate with him during working hours for the settlement of disputes and grievances of employees covered by the agreement, or of employees in the appropriate unit, as the case may be, or to make any deductions from the wages of any such duly authorized representative of a trade union in respect of the time actually spent in negotiating for the settlement of such disputes and grievances;

(e) to discriminate in regard to hiring or tenure of employment or any term or condition of employment or to use coercion or intimidation of any kind, including discharge or suspension or threat of discharge or suspension of an employee, with a view to encouraging or discouraging membership in or activity in or for or selection of a labour organization or participation of any kind in a proceeding under this Act, and if an employer or an employer's agent discharges or suspends an employee from his employment and it is shown to the satisfaction of the board that employees of the employer or any of them had exercised or were exercising or attempting to exercise a right under this Act, there shall be a presumption in favour of the employee that he was discharged or suspended contrary to this Act, and the burden of proof that the employee was discharged or suspended for good and sufficient reason shall be upon the employer; but nothing in this Act precludes an employer from making an agreement with a trade union to require as a condition of employment membership in or maintenance of membership in the trade union or the selection of employees by or with the advice of a trade union or any other condition in regard to employment, if the trade union has been designated or selected by a majority of employees in any such unit as their representative for the purpose of bargaining collectively;

(f) to require as a condition of employment that any person shall abstain from joining or assisting or being active in any trade union or from exercising any right provided by this Act, except as permitted by this Act;

(g) to interfere in the selection of a trade union as a representative of employees for the purpose of bargaining collectively;

(h) to maintain a system of industrial espionage or to employ or direct any person to spy upon a member or proceedings of a labour organization or the offices thereof or the exercise by any employee of any right provided by this Act;

(i) to threaten to shut down or to threaten to move a plant, business or enterprise or any part of a plant, business or enterprise in the course of a labour-management dispute;

(j) to declare or cause a lock-out or to make or threaten any change in wages, hours, conditions or tenure of employment, benefits or privileges while any application is pending before the board or any matter is pending before a board of conciliation or special mediator appointed under this Act;

(k) to bargain collectively with a company dominated organization;

(l) to deny or threaten to deny to any employee:

(i) by reason of the employee ceasing to work as the result of a lock-out or while taking part in a stoppage of work due to a labour-management dispute where such lock-out or stoppage of work has been enforced by the employer or called in accordance with this Act by the trade union representing the employee, as the case may be; or any pension rights or benefits, health rights or benefits or medical rights or benefits that the employee enjoyed prior to such cessation of work or to his exercising any such right;

(ii) by reason of the employee exercising any right conferred by this Act;

(m) where no collective bargaining agreement is in force, to unilaterally change rates of pay, hours of work or other conditions of employment of employees in an appropriate unit without bargaining collectively respecting the change with the trade union representing the majority of employees in the appropriate unit;

(n) where one or more employees are permitted or required to live in premises supplied by, or by arrangement with, the employer, to refuse, deny, restrict or limit the right of the employee or employees to allow access to the premises by members of any trade union representing or seeking to represent such employee or employees or any of them for the purpose of bargaining collectively;

(o) to interrogate employees as to whether or not they or any of them have exercised, or are exercising or attempting to exercise any right conferred by this Act;

(p) to discharge an employee for failure to acquire or maintain membership in a trade union, where such membership is a condition of employment, if the employee complies with subsection 36(3).

(2) It shall be an unfair labour practice for any employee, trade union or any other person:

(a) to interfere with, restrain, intimidate, threaten or coerce an employee with a view to encouraging or discouraging membership in or activity in or for a labour organization, but nothing in this Act precludes a person acting on behalf of a trade union from attempting to persuade an employer to make an agreement with that trade union to require as a condition of employment membership or maintenance of membership in the trade union or the selection of employees by or with the advice of a trade union or any other condition in regard to employment, if such trade union has been designated or selected by a majority of employees in an appropriate unit as their representative for the purpose of bargaining collectively;

(b) to commence to take part in or persuade an employee to take part in a strike while an application is pending before the board or any matter is pending before a board of conciliation or special mediator appointed under this Act;

(c) to fail or refuse to bargain collectively with the employer in respect of employees in an appropriate unit where a majority of the employees have selected or designated the trade union as their representative for the purpose of bargaining collectively;

(d) to declare, authorize or take part in a strike unless a strike vote is taken by secret ballot among the employees who are:

(i) in the appropriate unit concerned; and

(ii) affected by the collective bargaining;

and unless a majority of the employees voting vote in favour of a strike, but no strike vote by secret ballot need be taken among employees in an appropriate unit consisting of two employees or fewer;

(e) to seek or take steps to have an employee discharged for failure to acquire or maintain membership in a trade union, where such membership is a condition of employment, if the employee complies with subsection 36(3);

(f) to use coercion or intimidation of any kind against an employee with a view to discouraging activity which might lead to the rescission of an order or decision of the board under clause 5(a), (b) or (c).

(3) For the purposes of this Act:

(a) an application is deemed to be pending before the board on and after the day on which it is first considered by the board at a formally constituted meeting until the day on which the decision of the board is made;

(c) a matter is deemed to be pending before a special mediator on and after the day on which the special mediator is appointed by the minister until the day on which the special mediator's report is received by the minister.

(4) No employer shall be found guilty of an unfair labour practice under clause (1)(c), (d) or (m):

(a) unless the board has made an order determining that the trade union making the complaint represents the majority of the employees in the appropriate unit; or

(b) where the employer shows to the satisfaction of the board that he did not know nor had any reasonable grounds for believing that the trade union represented the majority of the employees, or that the employees were actively endeavouring to have a trade union represent them, in the appropriate unit when he committed the acts complained of.

(5) In any matter or proceeding arising under this Act, an order made by the board shall be binding and conclusive of the matters stated therein.

(6) Where the majority of the employees voting on a strike vote under clause 11(2)(d) vote in favour of a strike, no strike may commence unless the trade union representing a majority of the employees:

(a) gives the employer or employer's agent at least 48 hours written strike notice of the date and time that the strike will commence; and

(b) promptly, after service of the notice, notifies the minister or his designate of the date and time that the strike will commence.

(b) promptly, after the service of the notice, notifies the minister or his designate of the date and time that the lock-out will commence.

(8) The board may, in its discretion, on the application of the trade union or affected employees, require that any strike vote under clause 11(2)(d) or any vote of employees to ratify the terms of a proposed collective bargaining agreement be supervised, conducted or scrutinized by the board or a person appointed by the board, and the board may:

(a) determine where, when and how the vote may be taken;
